1. Update from Jefferson County School District
Issue

On November 10, 2022, the Jeffco School Board voted to close sixteen elementary schools, of which, there served Wheat Ridge students. New Classical Academy at Vivian was closed and has consolidated with Stober. Wilmore-Davis has closed and has consolidated with Stevens. Kullerstrand has closed and has consolidated with Prospect Valley. Jeff Gatlin, Chief Operating Officer, and Lisa Relou, Chief of Staff, from the Jefferson County School District, will provide an update to City Council concerning the disposition of the closed schools at the November 6th study session.

This item is intended to be informational only. Therefore, there are no specific recommendations from staff and no specific direction requested of Council.

Staff Reports

Jeff Gatlin, Chief Operating Officer, and Lisa Relou, Chief of Staff, from the Jefferson County School District, provided an update to City Council concerning the disposition of the closed schools.

Mr. Gatlin reminded everyone of the items that required these actions, which included but was not limited to:

- JeffCo residents have grown by 55,854 but school-aged children has declined by more than 29,000.
- The District, for a multitude of reasons, has lost more than 5,000 students between 2019-2022.
- Finances and operation challenges need to be addressed.

Other items included the following topics:

- Regional Opportunities for Thriving Schools
- Property Disposition Process
- Community Engagement Priorities
- Roles and Responsibilities
- Target times for Solicitation

CM had comments and questions:

Several CM and the Mayor thanked Mr. Gatlin and Ms. Relou for the informative presentation.

CM engaged in a discussion and exchange of questions and proposals with the representatives from Jefferson County Schools.

CM asked a number of questions about the future uses of the closed elementary schools. The discussion focused on the process of declaring properties surplus, and how a municipality might obtain ownership of one of those properties.

CM also asked whether the closed schools might be held by Jeffco Schools in reserve for the potential need of more classrooms in the event our population of school age children increases.

CM also opined that the lack of communication and community engagement was a serious problem earlier this year. How has the feedback on those events and lack of community involvement been received by the school administration?

CM engaged in a detailed discussion about the future prospects of the City acquiring a closed school property. CM also discussed where the funds would go a school in WR that has closed is sold.

The school representatives also discussed the proposed improvements to Wheat Ridge High School, to renovate several parts of the facility that have not been upgraded in 50 years.
